April 2007

Notes from Nancy

Welcome Spring! We had a wonderful turnout and a spell-bound audience for last month's lecture. I was privileged to see Gerald Roy's cherished orange quilts and I felt I was having a special lecture of his personal favorites.

OKAY! We have a fabulous guild with 400 members. In order to continue our mission "to explore the world of patchwork and quilting and to provide a meeting place for beginners as well as the experienced to exchange ideas, designs, techniques and workmanship" we need volunteers to lead. And we especially need the Executive Board members of Vice President and Secretary to keep our guild moving on the same wonderful tract. It is your time, so please step up and take a leadership role. We all will be grateful.

All meetings this year will be held on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

- April 9
- May 14
- June 1-3 Quilt Show

QC Volunteering

This is the time of year when QC members renew their membership and, as part of that procedure, consider what volunteer activities they would like to be part of next year. If want a better idea of what the various QC committees do, check out the documents on committee functions and activities posted on our website. Here's how to access this information:

Go to the home page of our website (quiltersconnection.org), then click on Membership. At the end of the text, you will see the sentence, "For documents and forms of interest to members, click here." Now click on the word "here." This will bring you to an index of QC documents (Column 1), forms (Column 2), and information on Committee Functions (Column 3). Click on the committees and activities in Column 3 that interest you and find out more about what it takes to keep QC running smoothly, through the 100% volunteer work of members.

Library News April 2007

Thanks for the Feedback

Thanks for Betsy Abbott for donating a copy of "The Joy of Quilting" by Laurie Swim, a well-written early book by a Canadian art quilter.

Newly Purchased Books

I put off buying the books that members have suggested for several months because I was traveling, etc. Finally, in early March I had time to order a whole stack with items that will appeal to all sorts of quilters. Here's what I thought when I briefly looked them over:

- "Quilts in a Material World: selections from the Winterthur collection" by Linda Eaton uses an 1815 white-work quilt and many letters by a Rhode Island woman to discuss additional items in the Delaware museum's collection of 19th century textiles. The close-up photography of fabrics and stitching are wonderful and the text is extensive.
- "Kaffe Fassett's Kaleidoscope of quilts" features his new line of bright bold large-scale prints and woven stripes in quilts with simple piecing to show off the fabrics. The featured quilter is Mary Mashuta and she provides several pages about her design process.
- "Three-dimensional embroidery" by Janet Edmonds reminded me of Fiberarts Magazine and the Fiberarts Design books. The work is really abstract textile sculpture including a few boxes and other containers.
- "Mixed media explorations: Blending paper, fabric and embellishment to create inspired designs" by Beryl Taylor was published by the same folks as Quilting Arts Magazine. The author is originally from England but now lives in New Jersey. She spells out exactly how she used each material and technique.
- "Fabric Memory Books: techniques, projects, inspiration" by Lesley Riley will also appeal to art quilters who want to tell a story with paper and fabric. She shows several ways to bind pages into books and uses photos and flea market finds for embellishments.

- "The Book as Art: artists' books from the National Museum of Women in the Arts" by Wasserman, Drucher & Niffenegger may intrigue us because art books, like art quilts, straddle the divides between art and craft and between women's public and private lives. This book gives us a peek at 108 out of the more than 800 art books in this Washington DC museum's collection.
- "Symphonic Poem: The Art of Aminah Brenda Lynn Robinson" from the Columbus Museum of Art is the catalog of a 2002-3 retrospective exhibition by this multi-media African-American artist in Ohio. She does painting, drawing, sculpture, art books and some highly embellished quilts. All reflect her community and culture and the quilts in particular are truly exuberant!
- "Variations on a theme: Quilts with easy options" by Terry Martin gives many examples and clear rotary cutting and machine piecing instructions for quilts that feature larger scale novelty fabrics.

QC 2007-2008 Appointed Committees—There’s a SLOT for YOU!

I believe current committee members have been contacted at least once and some folks have had more than one message sent regarding next year’s cast of Appointed Committees. I was thrilled at the outpouring response from so many of you. Your willingness to volunteer in support of the Quilters’ Connection Appointed Committees is really the backbone of what makes QC tick. We need the membership to be involved in order for us to continue to flourish. We do have some open positions—Adopt-a-Fabric has some openings for next year and we also are in need of a Workshop Helper. There are a few slots that we’re waiting for responses. If you’re interested in a particular area, please, do let me know. My email is: abonsett@rcn.com.

I encourage all members to express interest. This is a great way for new members to get acquainted with those who know their way around the guild. It’s also a great way for a seasoned member to spread some knowledge with some of the newer members. Let’s all get involved! You may even have a little extra fun in the process! ☺ -Ann Bonsett-

Update on the Quilt Show

Bad news first! I am very disappointed in the lack of response to the advertising for the Program Book. We offered all of our quilters an opportunity to support the QC Show Book and to advertise their unique skills. We have many quilters who are teachers, who do long-arm quilting and are involved in the quilt world in many different ways. The result of this opportunity has yielded only 4 ads to date. Nowhere else could someone advertise their products for such low prices. There is still time to alter this disappointing showing. If you wish to advertise, please contact Stacy Humphrey at sdhumphrey@comcast.net.

The good and exciting news is that we have 190 quilts from 123 quilters. This is an outstanding contribution. The quilts are magnificent, everyone a masterpiece which will contribute to a unique quilt show experience that we can be proud of.

I am also thrilled with the selfless response from the volunteers in our guild. Nancy Howard, our incredible President, will be organizing the volunteer assignments. For any changes or additional shifts that you can do, please contact Nancy.

I am looking for two volunteers with good cameras and some photographic experience who will be willing to photograph the show either before or after public hours. Please call me and we can arrange the best time to take the photographs.

I know this year has been difficult without a visible Quilt Show Chair, and I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of you who have supported me with cards, notes and efforts. It has meant a great deal to me and has helped pull through some tough days. Thank you for your help, support and participation, and lets keep it on a roll.

Fabric Woven Vest

Learn the fascinating technique of fabric weaving to create interesting fabric for a vest with Judy Simmons on Saturday, May 12. Using 2-4 fabrics, decorative and couching threads, ribbons and yarn, students will find working with this technique to be easy and fun. The use of machine decorative stitches and couching techniques will add more excitement to the piece.

To find the supply list for his workshop, visit the QC website, www.quiltersconnection.org.

Workshops will be held at Watertown Center for the Arts. Cost is $50 per workshop.
